4-H members 15-19 years old will engage in an exhilarating week of:

- Examining the U.S. Constitution.

- Discussing issues of youth and possible solutions with senators, representatives, public, and private organization officials and each other.
- Practicing leadership skills in citizenship.
- Participating in a mock city council meeting.
- Developing a plan for action upon return home.

In addition, the week's activities include:

- A day on Capitol Hill meeting with members of Congress and seeing government in action.
- Visits to federal agencies and national organizations.

The National 4-H Center

National 4-H Center at doorstep of nation's history, many landmarks.

The welcome mat is always out at The National 4-H Center in suburban Washington, D.C. Our historic headquarters are open year-round, including all holidays, to serve you when you visit the nation's capital.

Since it opened in 1959, the 4-H Center has expanded into one of the most modern, comfortable and efficient residential-educational complexes in the country. Economical lodging is available for 380 guests in nicely furnished, climate-controlled twin bedrooms or in dormitory rooms which will house up to 250 people. Thirty conference rooms are designed to accommodate groups of various sizes, with our largest room holding 650. Our excellent dining facilities are capable of handling lavish buffets or banquets in addition to serving cafeteria-style meals daily. Spacious campus facilities are designed for relaxing, contemplating, exercising and just plain fun.

Located on a quiet, wooded 12½-acre site on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., the 4-H Center is served by a top-notch professional staff. The front desk operates round the clock. Services include use of audio-visual equipment for your meetings, help in arranging field trips and free parking.

There is easy access to and from major airports in the area. An excellent public transportation system will whisk you to nearby shopping centers, restaurants and churches or to downtown Washington. You can take an inexpensive bus to Friendship Heights Metro Station and ride anywhere in the greater metropolitan area on a streamlined subway train.

Your visit to Washington wouldn't be complete without visiting the historic sites and enjoying the cultural activities offered in the area. Must stops include the U.S. Capitol, the Washington Monument, the Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials, and the White House. The National Air and Space Museum and other Smithsonian Institution museums are well worth seeing. The Kennedy Center and Ford's Theater are just two of many places offering excellent entertainment.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower dedicated the 4-H Center on June 16, 1959. The Center since has become a training and learning grounds for 4-H members, volunteer leaders and professional staff. Emphasis is placed on citizenship and leadership.

The conference center also is open to other youth and adult groups from around the country and abroad. It has built a reputation as an international crossroads because of the international exchange programs it hosts.

J.C. Penney Hall, the main administration building at the 4-H Center, is one of the highlights of a stay here. A prominent mural in the spacious lobby depicts James Cash Penney, founder of the company that bears his name, standing with a youth and his blue-ribbed dairy heifer. Other young people surround Mr. Penney to reflect his dedication to the 4-H movement.

The 4-H Center is an outstanding educational facility serving groups, families and individuals. AQUATIC MAESTRO

AQUATIC SCIENCE
“Keeping Fish Alive”

An 8 part curriculum for beginners – ages 9-18.
A great start in the beautiful, healthy hobby.

Paul Spiece is The Aquatic Maestro. He has been a hobbyist for over 45 years. He hosted the widely used PBS TV series, Guppies to Groupers. Paul is also the father of six, with a bevy of grandchildren, and the director of a resident youth camp. He knows the hobby and he knows children. And he knows the value of—and the problems encountered by—lay volunteer leaders.

Paul recently completed a new series of TV programs titled, The Aquatic Maestro. The producer of that series brought the idea of aquatic science for 4-H to Allan Smith, National 4-H Program Leader. Working with Robert Horton, 4-H Curriculum Development, Ohio State University, and 4-H agents and volunteers in Summit County, Ohio, the first of a series of six units on tropical fish keeping has been created.

Unit I is titled Keeping Fish Alive. It teaches, through hands-on experience, the basic 'secrets' of a successful home aquarium. Unit I is the foundation for years of 4-H activity and a lifetime avocation. And recent research at the University of Pennsylvania and UC Davis shows a positive health benefit—lower blood pressure and pulse—from watching fish in an aquarium. This is truly a beautiful, healthy hobby.

Unit I has the following elements:

THE LEADER'S GUIDE includes lesson plans, proposed activities, resource people, fish keeping charts and logs, and 4-H project logs—everything needed to help give a group of 4-H'ers a successful start in keeping tropical fish. The videos are tied to the lesson plans, so you'll know when and how to use them.

THE MEMBER'S MANUAL is designed for use by individuals working alone or in a 4-H group. It includes detailed explanations of all the basics of fish keeping, illustrations of equipment and set-up, full color photos of beautiful aquariums and fish, "Things to Do" sections, charts and logs, special project descriptions, and suggestions of equipment and people resources.

THE FIVE VIDEOS cover the basic set-up, offer samples of other 4-H'ers aquariums, present a question and answer session with Paul Spiece, document a Bowl Show, with 4-H'ers from Summit County, Ohio, and show livebearers and a sample of fish breeding patterns.

PROMOTIONAL MATERIALS are included in The Leader's Guide. Two sample press releases announcing the formation of an Aquatic Science 4-H project or club. Slick sheets of a newspaper ad. Slick sheets for two different posters. A sample letter to those who indicate an interest in participating.

The Aquatic Maestro and staff will be available via telephone to assist and advise 4-H agents and volunteers in developing an Aquatic Science program. Phone 814/838-1818 for more information.
